VOLUME 44

Exhausted from their morning practice, Mindy McCarty, Noelle Collins, Lea Stanton, and Michelle Geis are as excited as they look about returning to practice.

Pepping up the crowd at a football game, Husky cheerleaders keep spirits high.

Enjoying the company at the Homecoming dance, Troy Garlitz's imagination takes him to another place as he grooves to ''Margaritaville''.

THE POWER . . .

The power of a husky was seen more than ever this year. Not only did it grow in individual efforts, but also in team events. All of the aspects of NHS thrived with a new power.

The sports department started building their strength earlier than before. All fall practices began August 15, to assure that they would be playing with increased power. The NHS soccer team experienced a breakthrough in skill and unity during their third year because the organization was more established and experienced. The football team got the opportunity to dig their paws into the field and face new opponents. They came out of the dawg house fighting. The volleyball team rekindled its conquering tradition of defeating its opponents, while the JV utilized its most victorious forces and had an undefeated season. "If you can't run with the big dawgs, then stay on the porch,'' became a mental motto of the cross country team. However, being rough and tough was still not enough for the runners to meet their previous record, but select team members qualified for regionals. The cheerleading team began practices three months in advance by having tryouts at the end of the '94-'95 school year. All practices of the fall activities were exemplified by summer camps held at FSU, Seven Springs, and numerous other locations. The band also attended camps. The band wanted to perfect their routines throughout the summer. Much of the music and field show had added flair, since most of it was created by band members themselves.

Not only were academic, vocational, and elective classes more active and enhanced than ever, but seniors had more to choose from. AP courses in biology, calculus, and English became scheduling options, which created a challenge in the power of knowledge.

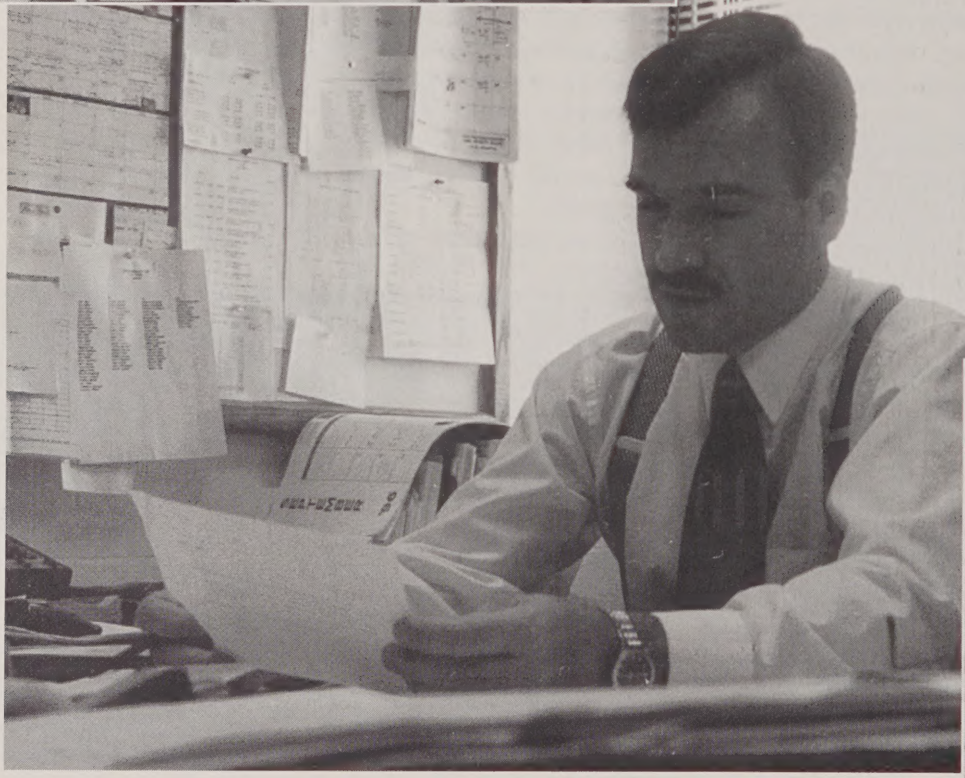
It was obvious that all aspects of NHS were powerful this year, but the overall attitude was extremely outstanding. Students involved in sports, academics, and employment never gave up even when it seemed that they would never reach their goals.

If power really does come in numbers, then NHS had it this year. The freshman class was one of the largest ever, and while students may have complained about crowded hallways, this added mass gave more diversity to the student body.

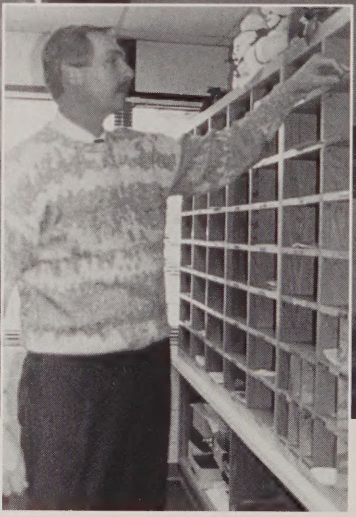
It was not hard to see how awesome the power of a husky could be. It was, and remains to be, so powerful you can experience it.

Conferring over an early dismissal, Mrs. Robinson and Mr. Reichenbecher decide when to make the much awaited announcement.

Mr. Green is satisfied with the computer-calculated GPA of many students.

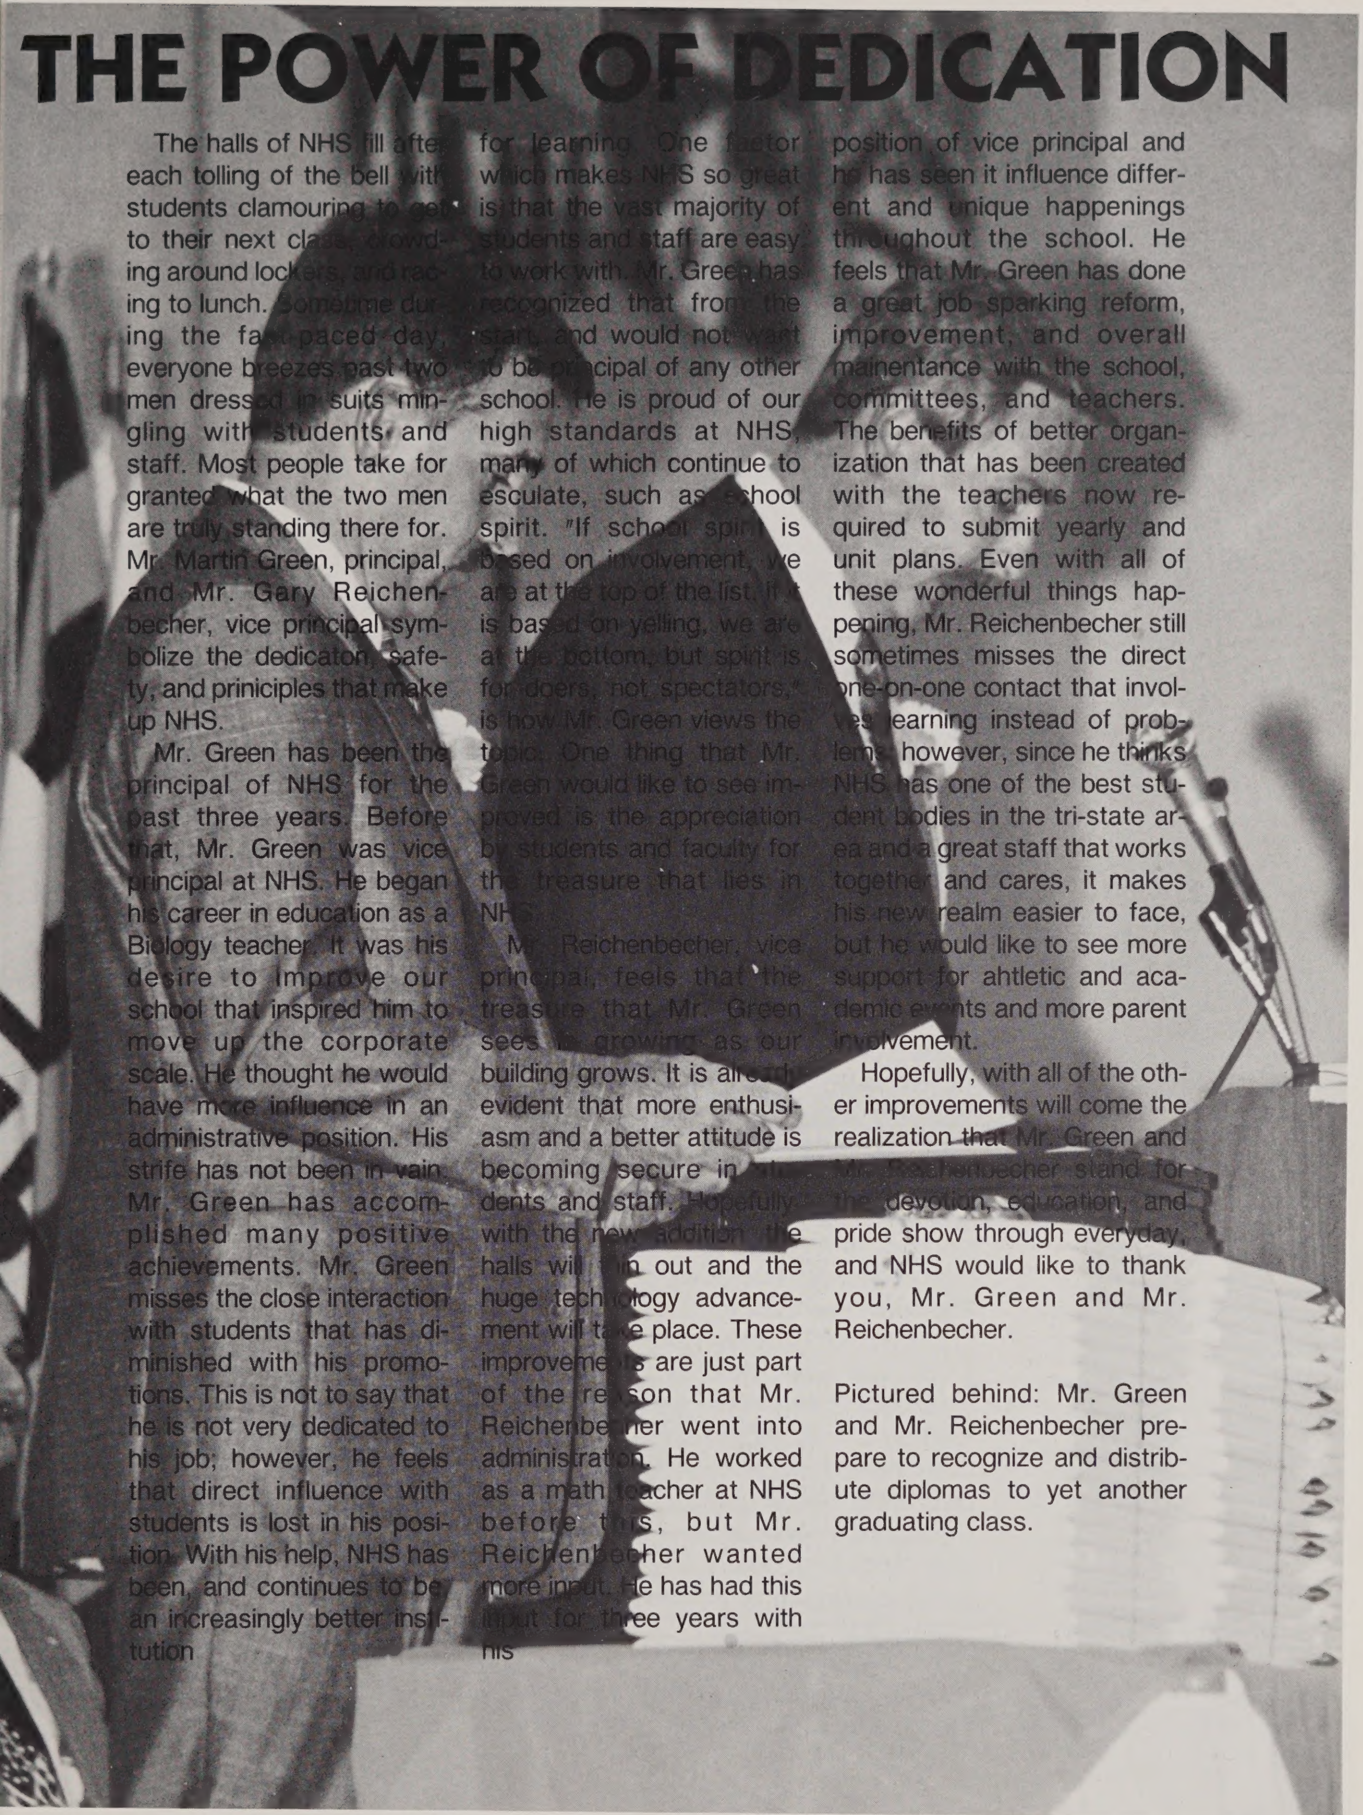


Reading a letter from the Board of Education, Mr. Green ponders the monthly agenda.



Mr. Reichenbecher checks for a bulletin which gives him information that helps him maintain attendance at ninety-five percent.

THE POWER OF DEDICATION



The halls of NHS fill after each tolling of the bell with students clamouring to get to their next class, crowding around lockers, and racing to lunch. Sometime during the fast-paced day, everyone breezes past two men dressed in suits mingling with students and staff. Most people take for granted what the two men are truly standing there for. Mr. Martin Green, principal, and Mr. Gary Reichenbecher, vice principal symbolize the dedicaton, safety, and priniciples that make up NHS.

Mr. Green has been the principal of NHS for the past three years. Before that, Mr. Green was vice principal at NHS. He began his career in education as a Biology teacher. It was his desire to improve our school that inspired him to move up the corporate scale. He thought he would have more influence in an administrative position. His strife has not been in vain. Mr. Green has accomplished many positive achievements. Mr. Green misses the close interaction with students that has diminished with his promotions. This is not to say that he is not very dedicated to his job; however, he feels that direct influence with students is lost in his position. With his help, NHS has been, and continues to be, an increasingly better institution for learning. One factor which makes NHS so great is that the vast majority of students and staff are easy to work with. Mr. Green has recognized that from the start, and would not want to be principal of any other school. He is proud of our high standards at NHS, many of which continue to esculate, such as school spirit. "If school spirit is based on involvement, we are at the top of the list. If it is based on yelling, we are at the bottom, but spirit is for doers, not spectators," is how Mr. Green views the topic. One thing that Mr. Green would like to see improved is the appreciation by students and faculty for the treasure that lies in NHS.

Mr. Reichenbecher, vice principal, feels that the treasure that Mr. Green sees is growing as our building grows. It is already evident that more enthusiasm and a better attitude is becoming secure in students and staff. Hopefully with the new addition the halls will thin out and the huge technology advancement will take place. These improvements are just part of the reason that Mr. Reichenbecher went into administration. He worked as a math teacher at NHS before this, but Mr. Reichenbecher wanted more input. He has had this input for three years with his position of vice principal and he has seen it influence different and unique happenings throughout the school. He feels that Mr. Green has done a great job sparking reform, improvement, and overall mainentance with the school, committees, and teachers. The benefits of better organization that has been created with the teachers now required to submit yearly and unit plans. Even with all of these wonderful things happening, Mr. Reichenbecher still sometimes misses the direct one-on-one contact that involves learning instead of problems; however, since he thinks NHS has one of the best student bodies in the tri-state area and a great staff that works together and cares, it makes his new realm easier to face, but he would like to see more support for ahtletic and academic events and more parent involvement.

Hopefully, with all of the other improvements will come the realization that Mr. Green and Mr. Reichenbecher stand for the devotion, education, and pride show through everyday, and NHS would like to thank you, Mr. Green and Mr. Reichenbecher.

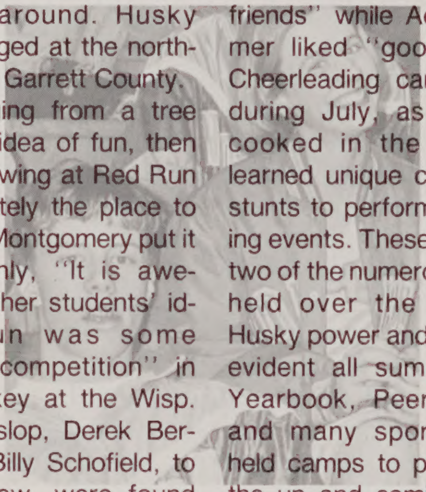
SOLAR POWER



The academic year was not the only time the power of a Husky was present. Summer was an exciting season. Many people enjoyed spending their time biking, hiking, camping, or just hanging around. Husky power surged at the northern end of Garrett County.

If swinging from a tree was your idea of fun, then the rope swing at Red Run was definitely the place to be. Chad Montgomery put it quite plainly, "It is awesome!" Other students' idea of fun was some "friendly competition" in roller hockey at the Wisp. Kristin Heslop, Derek Berger, and Billy Schofield, to name a few, were found there every Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday.

The Garrett County Swim Team met every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8:00 a.m. That might have been early for some, but Lee Railey, Noelle Collins, Stephannie Friend, Jill Speicher, and Julia Geisler enjoyed participating in the training and competition.

The Legion in Grantsville was a popular spot on Wednesday nights for hot wings and socializing with friends.

In school related activities, band camp got started in the early part of August. Tyler Smith thought it was "fun to be with your friends" while Adam Yommer liked "goofing off". Cheerleading camp began during July, as the girls cooked in the sun and learned unique chants and stunts to perform at sporting events. These were only two of the numerous camps held over the summer. Husky power and pride was evident all summer long. Yearbook, Peer Helping, and many sports teams held camps to prepare for the up and coming school year. A true Husky recognized that power knows no season.

NEW and IMPROVED POWER

During the month of August, Pifalo, a local construction company, began the new addition to Northern High School. The wing was designed to house six large classrooms designated to specific classroom instruction. Larry Kisner, job foreman, is a 1965 graduate of Northern High School and was proud to make his alma mater a bigger and better place to learn. This new addition not only provided much needed classrooms, but also provided additional space for the ever-growing student populous. It is anticipated that the halls will be less congested; however, four minutes may seem like a short amount of time when traveling from one end of the expanded building to the other. The new wing will be occupied by the math department, the physics/technology classes, and the computer lab. This created a first for Northern High School because rooms were specifically designed to enhance the teaching of physics and computer science. The addition will also allow other subject areas to spread out and for teachers to have an assigned room for the entire teaching day. According to the faculty, having a room to call your own is definitely a welcome sight. So beginning the 1996-97 school year, administrators, faculty, staff, and students will arrive to a bigger, more improved Northern High School.

ELECTING POWER

Electives at NHS provide students with realistic training for future careers while other electives expanded interests in outside hobbies. Classes such as auto mechanics, tech ed, drafting, journalism, masonry, and computers — to name a few — give students a working background for post-graduate occupations. Other electives like chorus, physical education, livestock science, and weight training sparked student's interest that generates life-long activities or career aspirations, not to mention the small rewards that happen immediately. An extremely active elective, band, took first place in seven open competitions, won Chapter Thirteen Championships, and took part in the Atlantic Coast Championships. Allied health, a class designed for students interested in the medical field, was filled with females seeking a Nursing Assistant Certificate. This certificate could lead to a full time assistant nursing job or a basis for pursuing a nursing degree.

VICA, a combination of electives, experienced a high point this year when Vernon Paugh won third place in the region and second place in the state masonry contest which enabled him to go on to the national competition. Jason Savage also qualified for further competition in carpentry after placing first in the region and the state. The two competed in their specific areas during the National competition in Kansas City.

Students that participated in elective classes this year demonstrated how Northern's special programs are successful. The participants gained a sense of pride that will stay with them throughout their careers.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

The power of a husky is personified through the diversity of NHS students. Every student contributes to the quality and personality of our school. Yet, as each year passes, as new students arrive, and as the anxious seniors leave, NHS continues to grow in power. More students are becoming involved, whether it be in sports, academics, and cocurricular.

Every branch of our school is thriving from the learning that takes place within these walls to all the people that make it happen. Each year, more teachers are being hired, the student body is increasing, and the facility itself is growing. The power of a husky is pulsing uncontrollably throughout NHS; the shock waves are changing our school in ways that will never be forgotten. It is the people of NHS that make our school distinctly unique, and it is YOU that has made NHS the best it has ever been.

One Sweet Day

Never had I imagined living without your smile. Feeling, knowing you're here with me-it keeps me alive. I assumed you'd always be there. I took your presence for granted, but I always cared. I miss the love we shared.
Although, the sun will never shine the same, I'll always look to brighter days. Lord, I know when I lay me down to sleep, you will always listen as I pray. And I know you're shining down
on me from heaven,
like so many friends
I've lost during the way. And I know eventually we'll be together-one sweet day-patiently, I'll see you in heaven.

POWER SURGE

Strength, power, and pride is characteristic to all NHS athletes competing in a team sport. An individual sense of pride and strength combined with team power equates a winning organization. These are not, however, simply external qualities to be acquired. An athlete has to bring inner strength and self-worth to the sport he or she joins. Sure, brute strength is needed in several sports - particularly football and wrestling. Ask any lineman or wrestler and he will tell you his sport requires mental strength as well. Any soccer player, trackster, or cross country runner will admit that stamina is both a physical and mental attribute. A good tennis player will confess to mind game, set, match. Baseball and softball players must have great arm strength, but Husky players have an inner power that turns into outer pride. Mind over matter surges basketball and volleyball players through close-scoring games. NHS cheerleaders personify the pride of every athlete and athlete at heart. Both physical and mental strength, power, and pride reflect in the acts of Northern athletes. No one can question the power of a Husky!

Above picture: Rachel Leverenz takes a second look to see if the goal attempt was successsful.

The Husky football team played their best and fought hard, but ended up with the unfortunate record of 3-7. The team members are preparing to overcome this record next year.

With outstanding defense, the running back rushes for a two point conversion.

#30, Andy Brenneman attempts to stop the opposition as his teammates help block.

Quarterback, Jonh Snelling, hands off to Brian Heslop in hopes of a huge gain and victory.

During a pep rally for the Northern-Southern game, the team gets psyched-up for the big event.

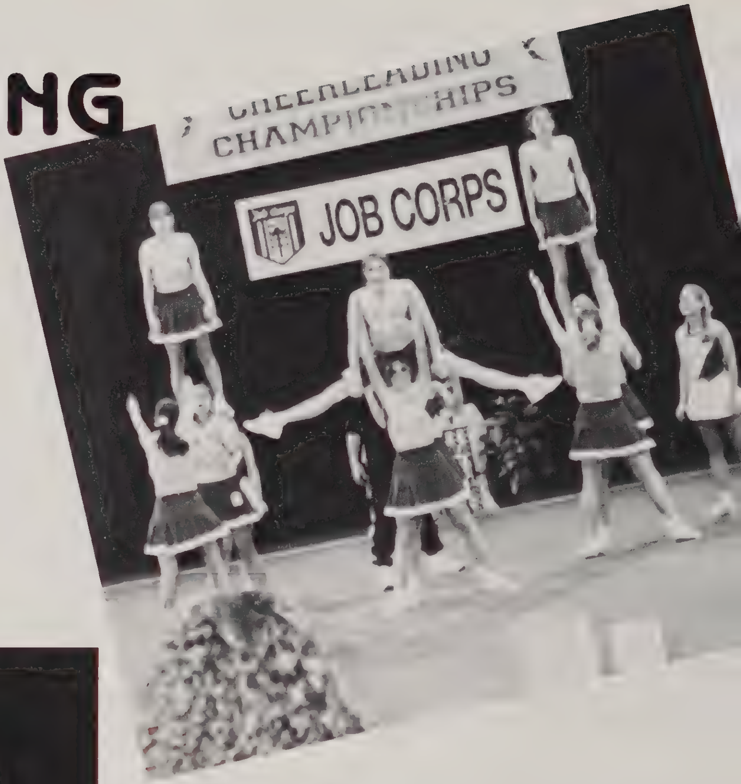
CHEERLEADING

Without statistics and a year end record, it is hard to determine success; however, the Husky cheerleaders demonstrated excellence in a year long season.

The varsity squad competes at the Maryland Cheerleading Championships and ends up with an impressive finish.

Lori Glotfelty and Stephannie Friend exhibit amazing athletic prowess as they get the crowd psyched.



In synch, the varsity and JV show their dedication and support at a home football game.

Lori Glotfelty, Larah Friend, and Priscilla Beachy cheer on the boys' basketball team as they go into double overtime against Southern in the playoffs.

SOCCER

With their hearts in the game, the NHS soccer team's record was 0-12. Without losing any seniors, they will have an advantage and knowledge of the sport for the next season.

Outrunning her opponent, Rachel Leverenz goes after the ball.

Adam Yommer uses a driving force to dribble the ball down the field.

Winding up to drive the ball towards the goal, Derek Berger kicks the ball.

Gus Karlberg steps to the ball and attempts a knee-kick toward the goal.

to R: Standing: Coach Ables, Rachel Leverenz, Jimmy Warnick, Jeremy Reed, Lee Railey, Gus Karlburg, Anselm Waigand, John Durst, Jeff Folk, Doug Weimer, Coach Hollaway. CROSS COUNTRY

The boys' and girls' cross country teams were running their best to obtain high places in their meets.

Trying to advance her place, Kendra Duckworth strides for a top finish.

With no one else in sight, Stacy Dolan strengthens her lead above the other runners.

As the gun pierces the air, the runners begin the 3.2 mile run at Broadford Lake against Southern.

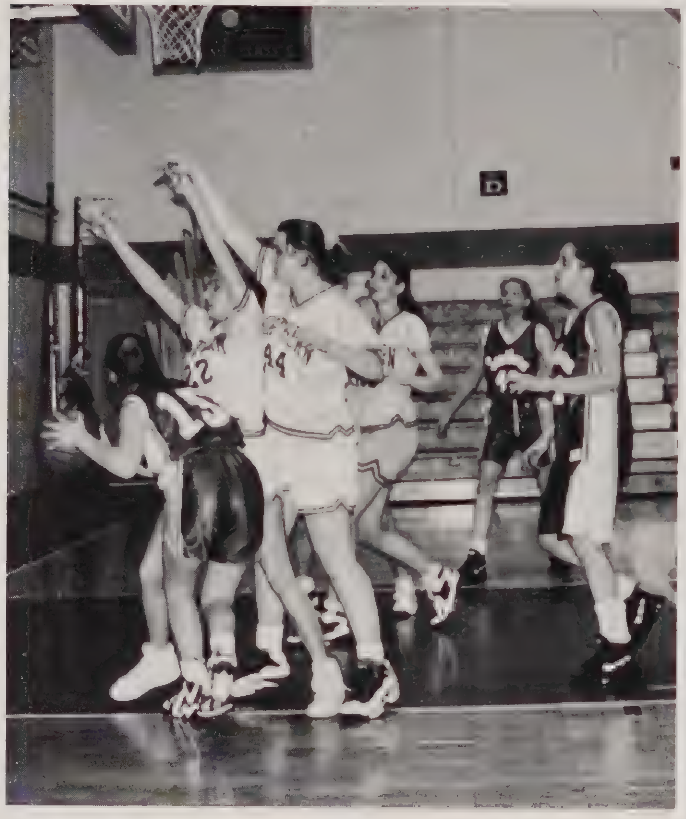
GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The team broke even with a record of 12-12, which included the playoffs, where the team took the first game.

Taking a breather, the JV team studies defense tactics with Coach McKenzie.

Brooke Brenneman and Chelsea Frickey force the Southern player to execute a different move.



Heads up! Northern waits with anticipation for a chance to retrieve the ball.

Mindy McCarty scrambles to gain possession of the ball to add another turnover to the opposing team's record.

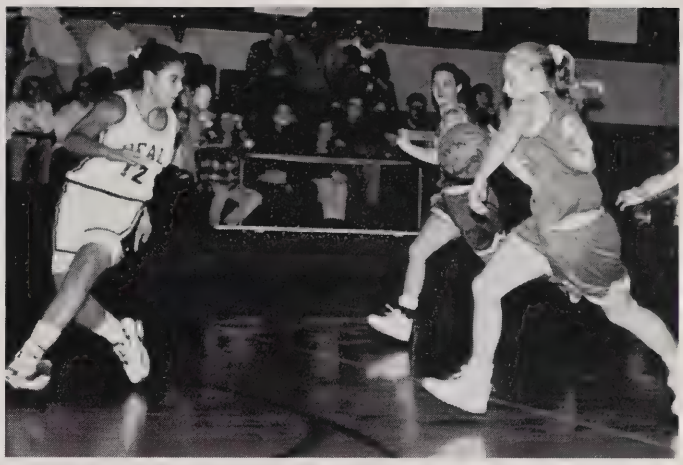
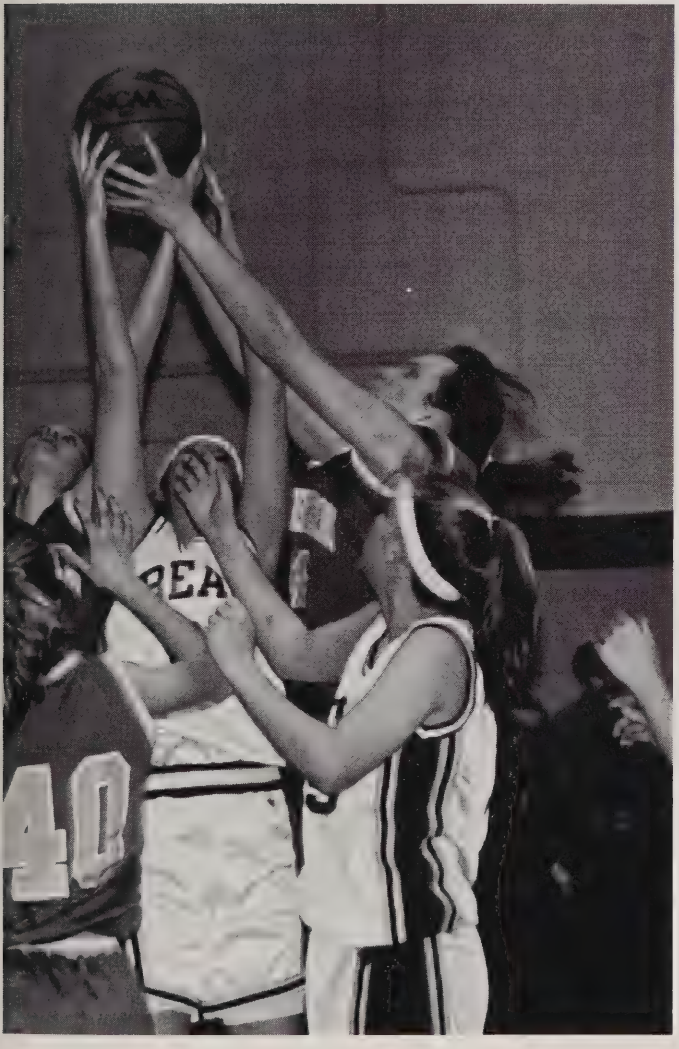
Dodging her Beall counterparts, Kristin Heslop strives to keep her shooting percentage high.





Lea Stanton is just one of the Husky girls that exhibit great ability as the two teams bound for the ball.

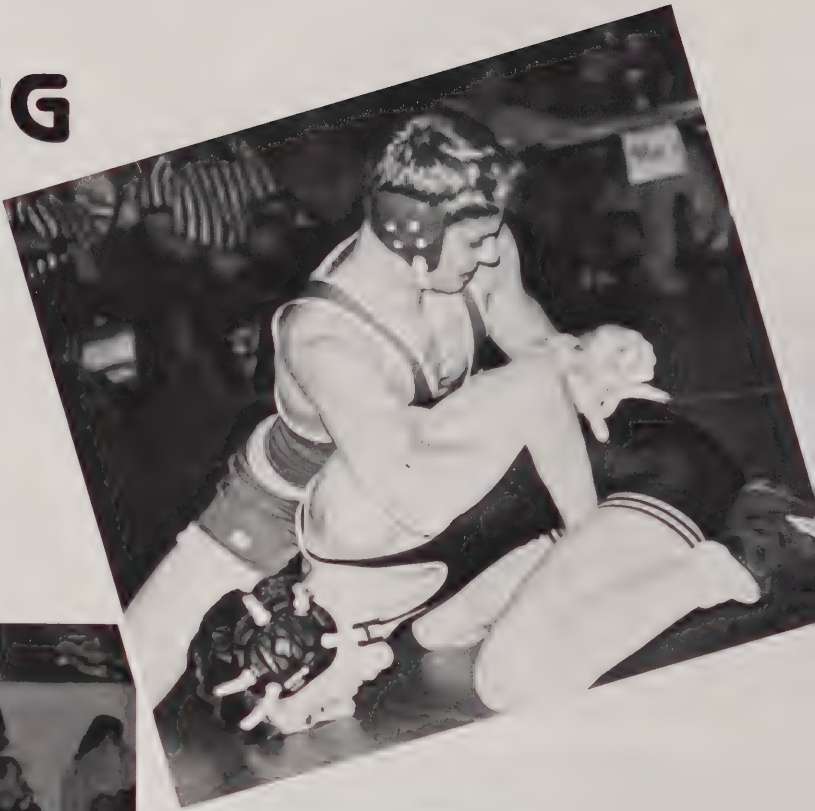
WRESTLING

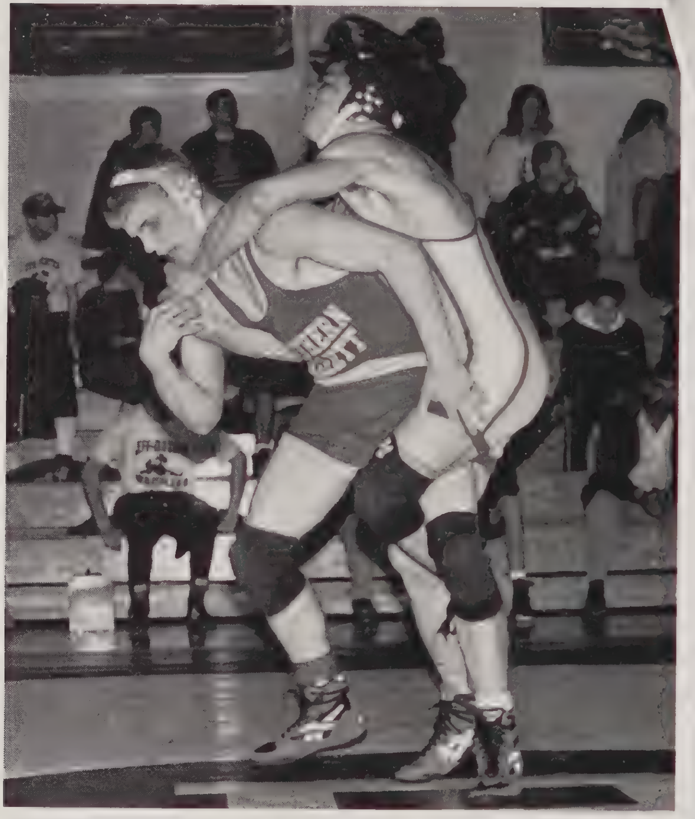
A 17-1 record showed how devoted the Husky wrestlers were. With a great team record, many individuals were proud of their own records and accomplishments.

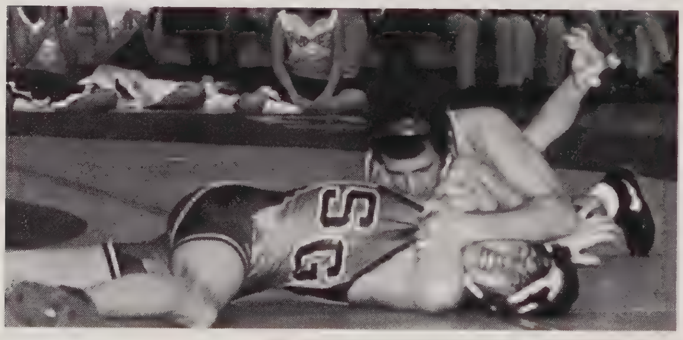
Aaron Hordubay uses his skill to put a hammerlock on his Bedford opponent.

Nate Kauffman attempts to flip his opponent while making sure there is an open escape route.



Brandon Baumgardener goes for a win as he struggles his Southern counterpart to the mat.





Using the corkscrew technique, Jason Savage manuevers his rival to a pin.

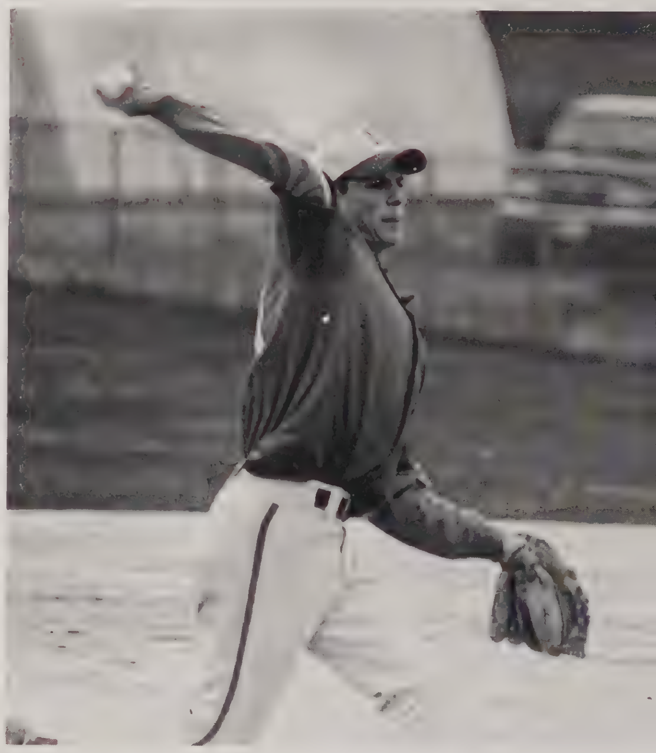
BASEBALL

The Husky baseball team started out with a slow start but finished with a fury to end the season with a winning record.

Tim Sines waits for the ref's ruling on whether he is safe or out.

Brian Heslop and Nick Mitchell converse about the previous plays as they return to the dugout.

Putting all his force behind the ball, Matt Fritz throws strike three.



Tim Sines steals second as the misguided ball is thrown into center field.

SOFTBALL

With a 5-12 record, the softball team did not have the season that was expected due to joining the WMIL league that fielded excellent teams; however, hopes are high for next year.

Analyzing the rival second baseman's technique, Mindy McCarty plans her advancement.

Erin Butner anticipates a double from her confidant that would advance her to third.

Kristin Heslop hussles to cover the base in an attempt to tag her opponent.

Catcher, Brooke Brenneman watches for her teammates to bring the play to a positive end.

TENNIS

The season experienced by the tennis team was augmented by Jamie Jo Vent and Steve Hinebaugh going to states, and the girls placing second in the WMIL league.

Cindy Thomas prepares for her singles match at Beall by practicing backhand shots.

Gus Karlburg uses his skill and strength to make defeating his opponent look easy.

Concentrating on the ball, Glenda DeWitt demonstrates her perfected form and forward swing.

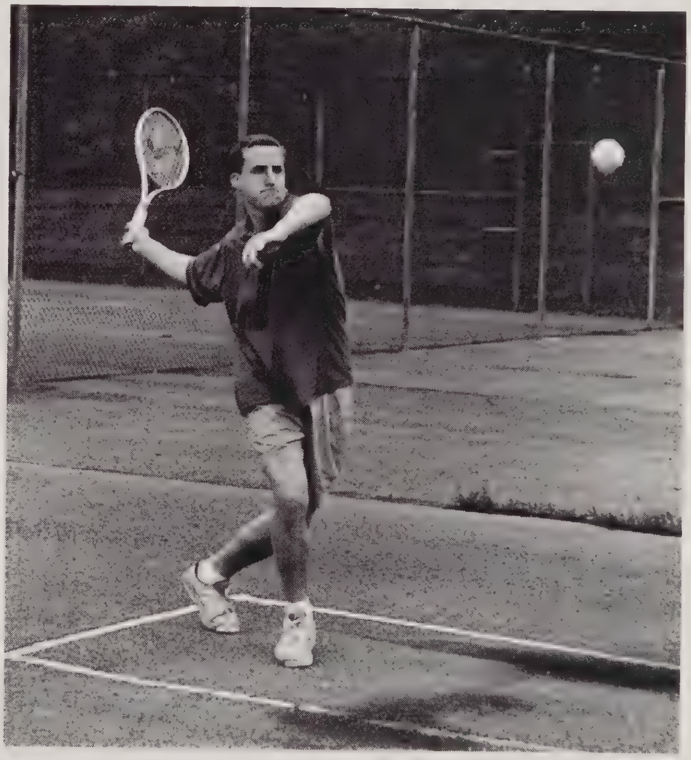
A confident Jamie Jo Vent prepares to return with a smashing forehand.



With his eye on the ball, Steve Hinebaugh refuses to allow an ace.

TRACK

The NHS track team improved on their traditional yearly showing, especially at states, with the girls scoring more points than ever, and Dave Scofield having a first place finish in shot put.

With a perfect hand-off, Jeremy McKenzie releases the baton to Dustin Swiger in hopes of a strong finish.

Flying high in the air, Rusty Miller stretches to get a long jump at a home meet.

Leading the pack, Chelsea Frickey uses all of her energy and to take the lead.

Ready, set, go! Mike Auvil shoots out of his blocks aiming to win.

Striving to clear the bar, Chris Kohler makes his first attempt to make a five foot jump.

In a zone, Courtney Bittner soars over a hurdle before passing the competition.

Soaring through the air, Stephannie Friend uses her power to achieve a long jump.
